BARNARIUM

A family compound for generations

What we are building, why, and how to use the website to learn the model, join the network, and find your place in it.

TOGETHER WE BUILD · TOGETHER WE THRIVE · TOGETHER WE RISE

FIFTY TO A HUNDRED PEOPLE. ONE PIECE OF LAND.

Barnarium is an off-grid family compound: private homes you own, systems you share, and an inheritance that doesn't get sold to settle the estate.

Households own their homes and their income. What is held in common is the land and the shared infrastructure — wells, solar and batteries, the commons barn, gardens and greenhouses, the perimeter — the same arrangement a condominium uses, applied to a working off-grid property. Nobody pools their paycheck. It is not a commune, and it is not a real-estate investment; it is a place to live that outlives the people who build it.

50–100 Founding residents, capped on purpose — small enough for consensus, large enough to carry the infrastructure	6 Pillars every decision is tested against	105 People on the finalized Phase One roster

The six pillars

Off-grid living. Independent of municipal water, sewer and power by design — every system has a backup, and every backup has been tested.

Private & shared spaces. Your own front door and your own quiet, plus a commons big enough that nobody hosts a hundred people in their living room.

Security & technology. Perimeter awareness, connectivity that doesn't depend on one provider, and a response plan run by residents, not contractors.

Renewable energy. Solar with battery storage, generator backup, and a load plan that keeps wells, cold storage and medical equipment running through anything.

Food, water & energy. Wells and filtration, gardens and greenhouses, livestock where it makes sense, and preserved storage to cover a bad season.

Sustainability & legacy. Ownership structure, maintenance funding and succession decided before the first foundation is poured.

ONE PARCEL. EVERY SYSTEM IN VIEW.

The website's interactive compound: homes around a commons, growing space in the middle, power and water on the edge, and a perimeter that watches itself. Scroll (or tap a stage on a phone) to fly through it.

Stage 01 · Off-grid systems

Solar arrays with battery storage carry the base load. Turbines pick up the night and the winter. Wells, catchment and filtration mean the water bill is a pump and a filter.

Stage 02 · Wellness & gardens

Raised beds and greenhouses stretch the season on both ends. The wellness barn sits where the noise doesn't reach. The commons kitchen is a short walk from every door.

Stage 03 · Perimeter

Drones cover the far corners in under two minutes. Patrol units walk the tree line at night with thermal eyes. The response team is people who live here, not a contract.

The spaces

Private homes · Shared spaces · Gardens & greenhouses · Wellness barn · Create & build workshops · Built for legacy.

LEARN IT. JOIN IT. BUILD IT.

Phase One collected interest and produced a real roster of 105 people.

Phase Two lets you experience the model, enter the network, and choose a concrete way to contribute — three connected experiences, one story.

1 · LEARN The C.U.I. game Balance Food, Art, Clothes, Tech, Shelter and Unity. Reserves drain, crisis conditions arrive, and the weak systems show themselves. Handoff: “Now find your real role.”	2 · JOIN The network Fifty state hubs, founding teams of ten, twenty-one ways to serve, and verification every ninety days. Placed by state, skill and capacity. Handoff: assessment, orientation, placement.	3 · BUILD Barnarium The place-based pathway. Shared systems, six pillars, a savings calculator, and a founding-family process that runs on qualification and discovery — not automatic commitment.

Understand Phase Two, experience the model in the game, select your state hub, declare your skills and capacity in the signed assessment, enter a working group, and — if your family is ready for place-based living — qualify for Barnarium.

One rule. The game creates understanding, the network creates belonging, and Barnarium creates a qualified, place-based pathway. Nobody is asked to do all three at once — pick the step that matches your readiness.

Eight working groups

Food security · Finance & fundraising · Technology & innovation · Art & culture · Shelter & infrastructure · Textiles & apparel · Disaster preparedness · Membership & operations. Every group leaves orientation with one interim coordinator, one thirty-day deliverable, one meeting rhythm and one documented contribution.

ONE FRONT DOOR, TOP TO BOTTOM

The site is a single page. Scroll it in order and it tells the whole story; the menu jumps to any part.

WHAT A SHARED COMPOUND SAVES A HOUSEHOLD

Enter what you pay today. The right-hand column is what we estimate the same line costs inside Barnarium — every estimate is editable and the reasoning is one click away. Nothing here is a promise; it's a model you can argue with.

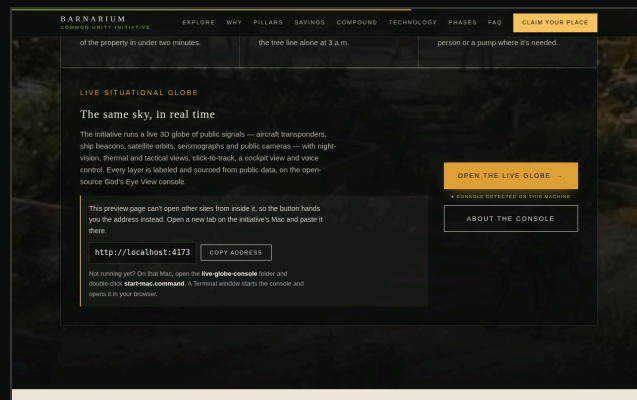

MONTHLY COST	TODAY	AT BARNARIUM	EVERY MONTH	EVERY YEAR	OVER 30 YEARS
Rent or mortgage What you pay for the roof today	$ 1850	$703 NEW LEASE	$3,279	$39,345	$1.18M before any taxes
Electric Grid power bill	$ 105	$25 99% LEASE
Water & sewer Metropolitan water bill	$ 75	$0 100% LEASE

SHARED FUND PROJECTION

Contribute the saving on a schedule

Same idea as dollar-cost averaging: a fixed amount every month, whatever the market is doing. Put the monthly saving

The savings calculator. Nine household cost lines, each with the share that remains at Barnarium and one-line reasoning. Example: a $1,850 rent line projected at $703; $3,279 a month across all lines for the default household.

The live situational globe card. Click-to-track any aircraft, ride the cockpit view, switch to night vision or thermal, and control it by voice. Every layer is labeled and sourced from public data.

About the calculator. Every figure it produces is a projection with documented assumptions, not a guarantee. Returns are not guaranteed, the fund structure is decided in the structure-and-site phase, and nothing on the site is financial advice. The point is the shape: a household that stops paying for what the compound provides has a monthly figure to build with.

FIVE PHASES. WE'RE IN THE SECOND ONE.

PHASE	NAME	WHAT HAPPENS
01	Gather the founding families ROSTER FINALIZED	Phase One produced a finalized roster of 105 people. Verification and the signed member assessment continue; new interest is still welcome. No money changed hands.
02	Learn, join, build NOW	The C.U.I. game, the network by state and skill, and Barnarium as the place-based pathway. Eight working groups run thirty-day cycles, each ending in a published progress report.
03	Structure and site	The legal and financial structure — how land is held, how residents buy in, how decisions get made — then the search for the parcel that fits the plan.
04	Break ground	Infrastructure before architecture: roads, wells, septic, solar. Then the commons barn, then the homes.
05	Live it and pass it on	Full occupancy, working systems, and succession. The compound is designed to outlive everyone who builds it.

Four boundaries we hold in public

Privacy. We collect only what operations need; details are shared only with your consent and re-verified every ninety days.

Money and savings. Calculator outputs are projections. Entity, budget, approval, receipt, refund and reporting controls come before any fundraising.

Public safety. Common Unity supports preparedness and coordination. It does not replace professional emergency services.

Property and participation. Vision, qualification, research, negotiation and ownership are five different things. Network membership does not confer Barnarium admission or property rights.

Launch-day boundary. If a link, a legal structure, a financial control or a qualification process isn't ready, we say “not yet” and name the condition required.

PICK THE STEP THAT MATCHES YOUR READINESS

IF YOU ARE...

THEN

Curious — you want to understand the model before deciding where you fit

Play the C.U.I. game.

Ready to serve — you have skills and time to give

Join the network on the site, complete the signed assessment, and attend orientation.

An organization — you want to partner

Contact the initiative privately with a named representative and a defined contribution.

A potential founding family — you are ready to explore place-based living

Review the Barnarium vision on the site and express informed interest. Qualification and discovery follow; nothing is automatic.
